Dyslexia Institute of Minnesota, Part III, #3

The Dyslexia Institute of Minnesota was formed to provide assistance to the growing numbers of individuals recognized as having a specific language learning disability known as dyslexia. Dyslexia is considered to be a leading cause of illiteracy in America. In the past and up to the present, the Reading Center, which has become a part of the Dyslexia Institute of Minnesota, has provided teacher training workshops, educational evaluations and remedial tutoring for dyslexic individuals. Clients are helped to understand the nature of their disability and are referred for tutoring to teachers who have been trained in the appropriate educational instruction for dyslexics. The Dyslexia Institute of Minnesota will continue this work in the future.

It is the intention of the Institute to support and conduct fund raising, research and campaigns that increase public awareness and understanding of specific language learning disabilities. Through the Institute, Reading Center records can be used as valuable research material to contribute to the growing body of information about language processing disorders. The Institute can play a leading role in educating the public about the nature and prevalence of specific language learning disabilities (dyslexia), the academic, employment, social and emotional problems associated with this condition, and the appropriate and effective techniques available to teach dyslexics. Should a need arise in the future for a school designed specifically to teach language learning disabled students, the Institute would hope to provide that service in the community.
